A Flattop Comes Home to AMSE!

On March 19, 2009, visitors to the American Museum of Science and Energy in Oak Ridge can do something many have never done before - step inside a 1940's flattop house.

Moving and restoring the 576 sq. ft. house is a costly undertaking for the museum, requiring an estimated $50,000 to prepare the house for visitors. The AMSE and the AMSE Foundation are asking for your assistance in this effort.

How you can help…

- BUY A BOARD ON THE BOARDWALK - For $250, you can purchase a board on the boardwalk that will lead up to the entrance of the house. Each board will contain a 4"X6" bronze plaque containing up to 48 characters for the donor's name or message.
- Donate or loan artifacts to furnish the interior of the house. AMSE is looking for furniture, decorative accessories, kitchen items, clothing or any items that would have originally been in a flattop house.
- All donations are tax-deductible. For more information or other donation options please contact flattop@amse.org or call Jim Comish at 865.574.8453 or visit http://www.amse.org/flattop
